remember that trading is something that most people never become successful at. it's not something that can be learned in just a couple months, or even a year. the thing to keep in the front of my thoughts is that this is a process, and a long one. there will be days and weeks or even months that i feel frustrated, beat down, and want to give up. but i have to keep pushing. "never give up, for that is just the place and time that the tide will turn" -unknown. this a journey that i have started down, and will not give up until i am a successful, profitable, full time trader. this is something that i want for myself, and my family, therefore i will not give up. don't get hung up on the day to day, just stay focused on the process, and learning something new every single day.
